

Three Interesting Things:

Political Interesting Thing (Chapter & Textbook page numbers, 100-150 words):

Economic Interesting Thing (Chapter & Textbook page numbers, 100-150 words):

Social / Cultural Interesting Thing (Chapter & Textbook page numbers, 100-150 words):

The book by Doris Kearns Goodwin entitled Lyndon B. Johnson and the American Dream we learn through the author about his unusual way LBJ acted when sharing his life. LBJ was an intimidating man yet vulnerable too. It is interesting to learn about the influence of this mother. He craved her approval.

I had not realized that he died young at 64.

He dominated in the Senate.

He avoided conflict, conflict avoidant, yet he tried to dominate and control.

George Reedy, press secretary, said he had no sense of loyalty. Pg. 214

He had a strong anticommunism belief.

Question for Discussion:

I wonder what LGB would think about what has happened to Social Security if he was alive today?